The Stichting Restauratie Atelier Limburg (Maastricht, The Netherlands),
The Freer Gallery of Art (Washington D.C., USA) with the support of the Ministry of Culture, Government of India and The Andrew W. Mellon Foundation are pleased to announce a five-year extension of the Indian Conservation Fellowship Program offering Fellowships to Indian citizens engaged in the conservation of works of artistic and cultural heritage.

The fellowships are designed to broaden the experience of conservators currently working in art and cultural heritage Museums and institutions in India. The fellowships will be for a period of 3-6 months each with 6-8 fellowships awarded annually over a 5 year period, with the first year's fellowships beginning in the fall of 2016.

The Stichting Restauratie Atelier Limburg (SRAL), Maastricht, the Netherlands:

- ◆ Paintings and Historic Interiors Conservation

The Metropolitan Museum of Art (MMA), New York, USA

- ◆ Objects Conservation (sculpture, objects, furniture, musical instruments and archaeological materials)
- ◆ Paper Conservation

The Freer Gallery of Art and Arthur M. Sackler Gallery, Smithsonian Museums of Asian Art, (FG):

- ◆ Paper Conservation

The training will be given in the conservation labs focused on a project, working with specific works of art based on the fellows' backgrounds and interests, and the needs of the collections under their care. As an extension of the fellowship experience there will be follow-up initiatives working with MMA, SRAL and FG conservators to address collection issues at the fellows' home institutions. Seminars will also be held for fellows to present their work to a broader audience in India.

Requirements

Applicants must be a conservator with daily responsibility of the care of objects to apply. Fellows must be Indian citizens and should have strong knowledge of spoken and written English. Preference will be given to conservators at a relatively early stage of their professional careers (approximately 3-8 years conservation experience) and employed by museums of other institutions in India concerned with the study, conservation and display of the country's artistic and cultural heritage. Candidates must be employed at their current institutions for at least 3 years on the date of application. A good knowledge of conservation principles and basic academic background in conservation practice and artists' materials is expected.

Each fellowship will be for a period of 3-6 months. Accommodation and living expenses for food and other items during the fellowship period will be covered. It is expected that the applicants' salaries will continue at their home institutions as specified in the employers' statement requested below. The fellowship will include support for travel to the host institution as well as research travel for conferences, seminars and visits to other conservation laboratories or cultural institutions. Health care coverage, visa expenses and costs for residence permits are also covered. At the end of their fellowship, fellows will be able to purchase tools, equipment and supplies for use at their home institutions.
